Located 2 hours from Montreal, Gatineau is a vibrant, diversified, thriving business destination. This major city, the fourth largest in Quebec, is part of Canada's Capital Region, the country's fourth largest metropolitan area.

Combining convenience and diversity, the Outaouais region offers an ideal mix of urban amenities and natural attractions. Gatineau, gateway to the province of Quebec, is an event planner's dream city, with its charming restaurants and microbreweries, a culture trail, Gatineau Park and the Canadian Museum of History, all just minutes away from Ottawa. There's truly something for everyone, from nature lovers to foodies, golfers to culture and history buffs.

With more than 150 meeting rooms, more than 3,000 hotel rooms, a downtown conference centre, an impressive high-end sports centre, a rich cultural offer and a wide range of outdoor activities, the Outaouais is an ideal setting for business events.

I got into sales through the back door. After studying journalism, cinematography, literature and art history, I worked in sales to pay for my scholarship and developed a true interest for it. For over 20 years, I have worked in different areas such as telecommunications, publishing, the hotel industry and now in a destination marketing organization. My biggest passion is travelling: I have backpacked around the world, and worked overseas as a destination representative in the Bahamas and the Dominican Republic for a few years. So for me, promoting a destination is a perfect combination of interest, experience and passion!

Ten years ago, I completely fell in love with the Outaouais, a destination so rich and unique in possibilities. What an incredible opportunity to live in such a diverse region, with more than 650 km of bicycle paths where I can practise cycling, a sport that has become a true passion.

As I work toward getting my Certified Meeting Planner accreditation, I intend to continue to improve as a sales manager and offer you the best possible experience in planning your event. To become your first point of contact for the Outaouais region is definitely my primary goal. I look forward to talking to you soon.

"The Outaouais region is ideal for meetings and conferences. When it comes to combining business and pleasure, there's no better destination!"

- France Ménard, Migration

"The Outaouais offers nature in the city and urban amenities in the country. There are so many convenient, accessible possibilities to complement your meetings and conferences without disrupting your professional agenda."

- Ousama Malouf, Association des mathématiciens du Québec

"The Hilton Lac-Leamy is a favourite destination among our members. It's always a pleasure to plan and hold a conference there. Special thanks to Annie from Outaouais Tourism for her outstanding service and support to event planners."

- Marie-Christyne Brosseau, APCHQ

"I'm pleased to say our national conference (The National Citizenship and Immigration Conference) was a big success this year. Outaouais Tourism has provided us excellent support including suggestions on venues and events after the conference. Outaouais Tourism helped us secure the Museum of History for our conference social events and the events were well-received."
